THE FAMILY OF LYON.

FOREWORD.

The motive for filing the copy of this record with the library is to have the help of such as may know facts regarding the family.

When I began searching the family line our family had but little beyond the family of David Lyon, my great granifather. When the Lyon Memorial was consulted the statement was found that Alanson Forman Lyon, my granifather, had died in 1823. As I had talked with him as late as 1886 and knew he lived until 1891 it seemed desirable to confirm the line as given in that record before accepting it. To accomplish this every book which might give information on this head and which could be found in the Congressional Library at Washington or the Newberry Library at Chicago was read with care. Old cemeterys in Conn. and New York were visited, church records searched and a brief record of the lineage was made and seventeen copies sent to different persons who have done searching along parallel lines with a request that errors be pointed out. This compilation is the result of six years search along these lines.

The chief differences between this record and the one in the Lyon Memorial are, beside the error regarding my grand father, as follows:-

1. Ancestry of Abigail Ogden, who married Thomas Lyon. 101
2. Military record of David Lyon. 102
3. Family of David Lyon. 103
4. Ancestry of Charity Wilson who married David Lyon. 104

I will be glad to hear from any one who has any information along any of the lines touched in these pages, and will gladly exchange information possessed.

Numbers in a circle, thus (3), refer to the number given that name in vol. 3, Lyon Memorial.

ERRATA.

The following corrections should be made in the "Family of Lyon", this correction being of date Feb. 5, 1915.

(1460) George Frederic Lyon, born Athens, Pa., May 1, 1854, died at Sayre, Pa. June 23, 1914. Married Sept. 4, 1873, Anna Case. (She was born Sept. 2, 1852). He lived at Waverly, N. Y.

The author of the Lyon Memorial takes exception to the statement on page 1 and repeated on other pages that Thomas Lyon was of Scotch ancestry. Thomas is spoken of in letters as old as 1700 as being Scotch. The descendants of Richard and Henry claim they were from Scotland. A descendant from (294) Samuel who has been in England and Scotland and made original investigations believes they were from Perthshire, that Thomas, Richard and Henry were brothers and were sons of John Lyon, Yeoman, and his wife Elizabeth. It should be very clearly understood that there is small evidence for or against the claim. Also, it should be said that Thomas was living in Stamford in 1648 instead of Greenwich.

It should be understood that the aim has been to make all names and dates absolutely accurate. Incidents related are given with less certainty as to accuracy. The two should be separated. One is vital, the other merely interesting.

THE FAMILY OF LYON.

1. The first emigrant of this name in our line was Thomas Lyon, who sometimes spelled the name with an "i" instead of a "y". He was born at Glen Lyon, Perthshire, Scotland about 1621. He appears to have been the eldest of three brothers, all of whom came to Connecticut. It is the legend that his brothers were soldiers in Cromwell's army and were on guard at Whitehall when Charles I was beheaded. This was in Jan. 1648, or as we now reckon, 1649, and at that time Thomas was living at Greenwich. He appears to have been a man of some importance in the community, an item in the town records of March 5, 1656 is "The town of Rye adopted the following, Thomas Lyon and Thomas Browne are appointed to choose a house to be fortified for the safety of the town". He was married first to Martha Joanna Winthrop, daughter of Henry and Elizabeth (Fones) Winthrop and grand daughter of Governor John Winthrop, the Puritan governor. Martha appears to have been too weak physically for the trials of pioneer life and died after giving birth to two children, the first dying in infancy, and the second, Mary, growing up and marrying. His second wife was Mary Hoyt, a daughter of Simon Hoyt, of Stamford. Letters from both Thomas and Martha are found among the published letters of Governor Winthrop. They indicate that Mary was born in Aug. 1649. Children of second marriage.

2. Thomas Lyon, son of Thomas and Mary (Hoyt) Lyon, born ~~1673~~, married Abigail, daughter of John and Judith (Budd) Ogden. John Ogden was a ~~xxxxx~~ ~~of the~~ deputy from Rye to the General Court of Connecticut at Hartford on Oct. 8, 1654. He is further mentioned in the records of Rye. Judith was a daughter of John Budd. The Lyon Memorial gives the parents of Mary as John and Jane (Bond) Ogden. Thomas Lyon was born in 1673. "Honest" John Ogden left Rye in 1644. His youngest child of record was born in 1654, he died in 1681 and his wife sometime earlier. He lived at Elizabeth N. J. from 1652-3 until his death. While there is no extant record to show that it was as given above, there appears much more likelihood of it being correct than the other.

3. Jonathan Lyon, born June 1, 1706, married in 1727 Elizabeth Mead, daughter of Samuel and Hannah (Willson) Mead, and grand daughter of Jephtha Mead, wife unknown, and Roger Willson, wife unknown. Roger Willson was a merchant at Scrooby, England, fled from persecution to Leyden and was one of the joint stock company who fitted out the Mayflower. She was born April 5, 1708-9. Their children were:-

- (38) Jonathan b.11/14-1728
 (39) Elizabeth 6/28-1730
 (40) Elnathan 8/7-1732
 (41) Isaac 12/20-1734

 (43) *David 5/25-1741 m. Freeloze Forman d. 1782
 (44) Peter 5/28-1745

4. David Lyon, born May 25, 1741, married 1763 Freeloze Forman and died of small pox on a prison ship in New York harbor in 1783 or 83, the date not being known. Freeloze Forman (or Firmin) was born Aug. 6, 1744 and died May 14 1821. Freeloze Forman was daughter of James and Jane (Watson) Forman. The Watson line has not been traced. James was son of Alanson and Patience (Ogden) Forman. His grand parents were Ezekiel and Jane (Kniffen) Forman and John and Judith (Budd) Ogden. His great grandfather was John Ferman who married Freeloze Stayce. This name comes from Wales, the first of record being Gyles Fyrmyn, whose son Giles was an apothecary in England. He is supposed to be father of John, Giles and Thomas. John was the first to come to the colony, coming in 1630 and locating at Watertown. The next year Giles the apothecary came to the colony, soon returning but after his return his sons Giles and Thomas cross on the fleet which brings Winthrop and John Willson. John also returned to England, but came back in 1634 having married either in England or on his return, Freeloze Stayce. The Lyon Memorial gives what purports to be the military record of David Lyon in the Revolutionary war and then in an appendix takes it back. The records of New York during the revolution show four by the name of David Lyon. In the New York Line the first regiment has a lieutenant David Lyon and the second regiment a private David Lyon. The Westchester Militia has a lieutenant David Lyon and the Dutchess Co. Militia has a private David Lyon. The Lyon Memorial shows pretty conclusively that the David Lyon in Col. McDougall's regiment who is spoken of as "A tolerable Officer" was of Elizabeth N. J. and not of our branch. The records of the state of New York show in a published record called "New York in the Revolution" on page 307 the name of David Lyon as a lieutenant. In the State Archives, vol. 1, p. 305 "David Lyon appointed a lieutenant, 28 May 1778, in Capt Jacob Purdy's company formed by the consolidation of the North and South Companies of North Castle of Colonel Thomas Thomas' regiment of Westchester County Militia. In the manuscript records of the Treasurer, vol. 3 is found a certificate, being Certificate #9799, for 17 pounds, 1 shilling, 6 $\frac{1}{2}$ pence, dated 23 July 1779, issued to David Lyon for services as lieutenant in Capt. Jacob Purdy's company of Col. Thomas Thomas' regiment of Westchester county Militia. Abigail Lyon Adee and Hannah Lyon Leggett told Mrs. Florence Kellery grand daughter of the Abigal Eldred, daughter of the granddaughter of the latter that their father had been an officer in the revolutionary war, that he was later captured by the British, was for a time confined in the "Sugar House" at New York and later on a prison ship, where he contracted the small pox, died, and his body was cast into the sea. The date of his death was never known. The legend concerning his death was also told by his son Thomas to his descendants, as vouched for by Judge William P. Lyon of the Wisconsin Supreme Court. It was also told by David Lyon to his children. The children of this union are given in the Lyon Memorial and the authority for it is a record compiled by a son of the eldest son, Thomas. The record as given to his children by our ancestor, David, was different. Some of the other descendants have it still different. An effort has been made in the list below to harmonize the known dates and to interpolate the others, dropping the mythical children.

(294)	Samuel	May 6, 1777 Patience Gifford	Nov.7,1869
	Phoebe,	Oct.1,1778 Thos.H.Raymond,	Dec.8,1856

The authority for the above are: Abigail, tombstone says, "Died May 9, 1853, aged 92 years" Thomas, record of his son. William, tombstone says, "Died May 10, 1858, aged 90 years" Elizabeth, tombstone says, "Died ~~xxxx~~ ~~xxxx~~ Sept. 27, 1848, aged 78 years". David, record made in Family Bible by his son Alanson F. Hannah, church record, says born Apl. 4, 1775, died May 7, 1858. Samuel, church record says died Nov. 7, 1869, aged 91 years.

After the close of the war the family was broken up. Abigail married Daniel Adee, a blacksmith, who engaged in nail making in New York, and she took David, Samuel and Phoebe, and perhaps Hannah, with her to New York. David and Samuel learned their brother-in-laws trade. Our branch knows very little about the descendants of Thomas or Firmin. It is our understanding that he and his wife failed to agree and separated, he going south, presumably to South Carolina where several of his cousins were, these were children of his mother's brother. He had been a merchant, but at the time he went south he borrowed the money from his brother David to go with, giving him a gold headed cane, which he said was all he had. David gave this cane to his son in law, George Rowley Lyon, upon his marriage to his daughter Susannah. It was later given to James W. Lyon by their daughter, Ann Lyon Parlee.

5. David Lyon was born March 23, 1774, was married Sept. 23, 1797 Charity Willson, and died April 30, 1867. After learning his trade in New York he went to what is now called Port Chester, but was then called Saw Pits, where he built a house and blacksmith shop. Charity Willson was born at what is now called Glenville, Conn., but was then called Sherwood's Bridge. In 1800 they joined a company who outfitted in New York City and in March crossed the Hudson River with their teams on the ice. This seems strange at this time, as the river is not now allowed to freeze over. There were over 100 families in this caravan, Elizabeth (Lyon) Jacobs, William Lyon, David Lyon, Benjamin Willson, Kniffen Wilson and perhaps Benjamin Willson Sr and Daniel Willson being among those from the neighborhood and related to David Lyon who formed a part. This party went up the Hudson River, up its tributary to Cherry Valley and down the Chenango to where the town of Oxford is now situated, where most of them built their log cabins and made their homes. David Lyon lived at Oxford until 1819 when he bought a small farm seven miles below on the Chenango river. James W. was born on this farm, Alanson F. was born at Saw Pits and the others at Oxford. When Charity (Willson) Lyon was on her death bed she asked her husband to marry her cousin, Sally Sherwood to make a home for her babies. After her death David went back to Connecticut, driving in a one horse wagon, and saw Sally. At first she refused, but Wilson Slawson, husband of Charity's sister Susan acted as mediator, and the matter was fixed up, and the wedding took place. Sally refused to go to Chenango County and David returned, sold his little farm, took his three youngest children and returned to Conn. and bought a little plot of land, ten acres, on the Byrum river and built a shop and conducted it up to the year before his death. He was a blacksmith. This place was near the birthplace of his first wife and was then called Sherwood's Bridge, and now Glenville, Conn. In making a home the marriage seems not to have been wholly successful, but one of the children remaining for any length of time, Elizabeth and James leaving early.

Charity Willson was daughter of Benjamin and Polly (Kniffen) Willson, her grandparents were Samuel Willson and Phoebe Lyon. Samuel Willson was son of Samuel and Susannah (Ogden) Willson. Samuel Willson was a ^{son} ~~daughter~~ of John and Mary (Lyon) Willson. Susannah Ogden was daughter of Joseph and Susannah Ogden, Joseph being a brother to Abigail, who married Thomas Lyon. John Willson was a son of John Willson and grandson of Roger Willson, and Mary Lyon was daughter of Thomas and Martha Joanna (Winthrop) Lyon. John Willson, son of Roger, married Susannah Eaton, supposed to have been a niece or daughter of Theophilus Eaton, Governor of New Haven colony. Polly, or Mary, Kniffen was daughter of Benjamin and Gertrude (Purdy) Kniffen; grand daughter of Ebenezer and Charity (Horton) Kniffen and John and Rebecca (Brown) Purdy. John was known as "Still John" supposed from being a distiller. Her great grand parents were George Kniffen, the emigrant, name of wife not known, and Joseph and Jane (Budd) Horton, Joseph Purdy and Thomas Brown, names of wives unknown. Joseph Horton was a mileer, chief officer of the train band, vestryman, a selectman in 1671, justice of the peace in 1678, was given authority by the General Court to marry persons and grant warrants; Joseph Purdy was supervisor of the town, justice of the peace, and representative of the town in the general assembly.

ANCESTRY OF GEORGE R. LYON, born 1803

1. (1) Henry Lyon, one of three brothers of Glen Lyon, Perthshire, Scotland. Came to America with his brothers Thomas and Richard in 1648. (Thomas must have come several years before this, at least as early as 1665.) Henry was admitted to the church at Milford, Conn., Feb. 24, 1653. The same year he was married to Elizabeth, daughter of William Bateman of Fairfield, Conn.

In 1686 came to Newark, N.J. where he resided until 1673 when he moved to Elizabeth. Was a merchant and landowner, one farm being still known as the Lyon farm. He returned to Newark in 1696 and died there in 1703.

4. Thomas Lyon married in 1760, Huldah, daughter of Daniel and Rose (Briggs) Burlingame.

*Samuel Alexander
Thomas (Major Thomas Lyon)
Daniel (?) (Dr. Daniel of Great Bend, Pa.)

It is only fair to state that so far as the writer knows the grounds for claiming that Dr. Daniel Lyon of Great Bend, Pa. was brother of Alexander, Samuel and Thomas is that the last three came up the river in a canoe from Great Bend where they spent some time before coming to Lyon Brook, the fact that Samuel named his oldest son Daniel, and family tradition says that he was named for "His uncle, Doctor Daniel Lyon of Great Bend" and the further fact that there was at one time an heirloom said to have been presented by Dr. Daniel Lyon to his nephew and namesake. The Lyon Memorial gives a different ancestry for Dr. Lyon.

Samuel came to New York in 1791 after serving in a Connecticut regiment during the revolution. He lived for a time at Great Bend, Pa. In 1792 he with his brother Thomas, and perhaps Alexander, came up to Oxford in a canoe, and located four miles above the village at Lyon Brook.

George Rowley Susannah Lyon (#743)

The writer here ventures to make a correction of a few of the statements seen in print regarding George Rowley Lyon. One is that he, G.R., learned his trade with David Maydole who for a long time was a famous maker of hammers. Older men will recall the standing of Dieston's saws and Maydole's hammers. George R. told me that David Maydole learned his trade with him, "Blew and struck for me in the old shop", as he expressed it.

James W. Lyon (#750) told me "Geo. R. Lyon was of a family no kin to father. They settled at a place a few miles above Oxford called Lyon's Brook. G. R. Lyon learned his trade with James A. Glover at Oxford at the time Alanson learned his with father. They started business together at Greene, the firm name being "G.R. & A.F. Lyon" which the boys of the town called "Great Red and Almighty Fierce Lyon". This shop has grown to the Lyon Iron Works at that place, now conducted by Walter Lyon, the only one of the name left of that family." The trade referred to was blacksmithing which was much more important then than now.

Some efforts have been made to connect Samuel Lyon, father of George R. with Samuel Lyon, (uncle of Alanson, etc. As that Samuel went to New York and learned his trade from Daniel Adee at the same time as did David, his brother, it is most probable they would have known of the relationship had there been any. Some reports also state that David and Samuel came in 1792. As shown on page 4, David came to Oxford in 1800, his oldest son, Alanson being born at Saw Pits. Samuel came eight years earlier. These families knew of no connection.

DIFFERENCES WITH THE LYON MEMORIAL.

The first difference comes in the birth of Abigail (Lyon) Adee. In the record of the Adee family comes #12, Daniel Adee, and the record says "B. 1761, married May 16, 1785, Abigail Lyon, daughter of David and Freelove (Forman) Lyon". Further on is recorded "#14, David Adee, born 1785, married Jan. 8, 1790, Abigail, daughter of John and Ruth (Briggs) Lyon". It is also recorded that while she is "of Rye" she is no kin to the wife of his elder brother.

William Lyon was married in 1791 of the old Dutch Churches and the record reads, "Jan. 13, 1791, William Loines j.m., Kleyne Esopus et Syntje Van der Merkt, j.d. Rosister".

Mina was a younger sister of Tina, they being the two youngest of a large family and Mina wrote her daughter in 1819 a history of their family and in closing she writes, "Of these my brothers and sisters there is little need be written. Margaret, Philip and Wyand after a life of usefulness have gone to their reward. All the others live near here and you, my dear daughter, visit them all, if I may make exception of your aunt Tina, my dearest sister. Her husband we know not, and she lives in the far wilderness of western New York where travel is not easy. Her marrying was not approved by my father, as her husband is a native of Connecticut of which colony the people are given much to deceit in business and pride themselves more on sharp dealing than seeking honor and the confidence of their neighbors."

Hannah left children and their descendants have the family record, which gives dates as here used.

The ancestry of Abigail Ogden must stand on the inherent improbability of her mother being Jane Bond, who was 60 years old when Thomas Lyon was born.

The ancestry of Charity Wilson is from a record made by her sister Gertrude and a daughter. It corresponds with the record given in the History of Fairfield.

The three brothers, assumed to be such, Thomas, Richard and Henry Lyon are said to have come from Glen Lyon, Perthshire, Scotland.

The first appearance of the name is Sir Roger de Louveyne who was a follower of William the Conqueror. His son was Sir Roger de Leonne and he received lands in Perthshire, which were called Glen Lyon. His son Paganus went to the Holy Land with Geoffrey Plantagenet.

One of the later, Sir John de Lyon was the sire of the Scottish Earls of Strathmore to whom reference is made in Rolfe's edition of Macbeth.

It is possible that the three brothers were sons of "John Lyon Yeoman," of whom it is recorded that a woman was punished for bewitching his son John, and for making his son William lame. He had sons William, John, Thomas, Samuel and Henry. also that "1 March, 14 James, (1816) True bill was found against Elizabeth, wife of John Lyon, Yeoman," and a second time on 25 March 15, James against same "For not attending church, chapel, etc."

As our ancestor, Thomas was fined twice in Connecticut for not attending religious services, he having espoused the cause of the Quakers, although never formally uniting with them, it is possible this was a family trait, and his descendants may not be entirely to blame for their shortcomings.
